About meemoo, Flemish Institute for Archives

Meemoo collaborates with organisations in culture, media and government to support the care and use of their (digital) archives. We bring the past to life and prepare it for the future. Specifically, we digitise and archive Flemish archival material for over 180 organisations, and assist hundreds of heritage organisations with the registration and management of their collections.

We strive to make this valuable content as accessible and usable as possible in various ways. At thearchives.be, you can browse through video, audio and newspapers, while artinflanders.be and flemishartcollection.be offer a taste of art. Teachers (in training) and students in primary and secondary education can access The Archive for Education, where they find audio and video tailored for the classroom.

Meemoo also supports organisations and artists with advice and practical support by organising training sessions, answering specific questions, collaborating on projects, and sharing knowledge on the knowledge database kennisbank.meemoo.be.
